Benbo tripods are uniquely designed with the outdoor photographer in mind. Unlike conventional tripods, Benbo tripods can be set up and used on any terrain, under any conditions, in an unlimited range of configurations.

Most photo tripods open up to a single fixed angle - which is fine in the studio, but a problem when shooting outdoors. Although the environment cannot be altered to one that suits your tripod, you can change your tripod to one that suits any environment! Benbo tripod legs open independently to any angle, even right down to the ground. The camera column goes up, down, and all the way around. Controls are simple and oversized for a sure grip. Construction is of anodized, aircraft aluminum; lightweight yet tough-as-nails, impervious to the elements. Bottom line, there is virtually no place a Benbo cannot go, and as far as tripods are concerned, nothing it cannot do.

Features

- Benbo - short for “Bent Bolt” - is the key to incredible versatility of these tripods. The thick, precisely-curved bolt provides a central pivot point for all of the positioning components of the Benbo tripod

- Oversized leg lock knobs allow quick adjustment of the length - no fumbling, even while wearing bulky winter gloves

- Sealed, immersible lower legs overlap the upper sections and feature rugged connecting hardware. You can sink them up to their “knees” in a stream, or plant them in the mud

Billingham tripods are manufactured in Germany with precision. Legs are made of ash (timber tree), and heads are made of cast aluminum. Together these materials have little tendency to whip or twist, ensuring a stable camera platform.

Ash has a natural tendency to absorb vibrations. Its straight grain makes it immensely strong. Seasoned ash sections are cut and machined with precision, prompting them to slide together easily. A final coating is applied which protects the surface from ravage weather, yet allows the ash to breathe.

Features

- Rubber booted ground spikes for rough or smooth terrain.
- Vibration absorbing ash legs, weather-proofed and comfortable to hold.
- Solid cast aluminum head construction.
- Standard ¼” or ⅜” thread.
- Override button allows legs to be splayed for rough terrain.
- Reporter models have 23˝ swivelling head with a built-in spirit level.
- Reporter model center column can be reversed for suspending camera under the tripod.

Since no one tripod can meet every photographic need, Bogen offers a broad selection of tripods, manufactured in Italy by Manfrotto. Each tripod is available with a wide choice of heads, dollies and performance-enhancing accessories so you can select the combination that best fits your working patterns. All Bogen tripods use hard-finish, high-strength aluminum alloys. That is one reason why they resist wear and remain rigid and stable with heavy use and abuse. All models employ a clamping system for leg length adjustment that resists fouling and scoring and stays secure even under rough field conditions. And the legs are keyed internally to keep the locks aligned and accessible.

Bogen tripods feature a unique locking system to make sure that you do not remove the head unless you want to (with the exception of the Junior Tripod #390, which has a permanently mounted head). Most models use a ½” (Euro) thread connector, 50% larger and much stronger than the ¼” thread you’ll find on most tripods. Whether it is features or performance you are seeking, Bogen offers both.

Double Camera Support Platform (3269)
Item # BO3269 .............47.95
Bogen Manfrotto has designed a range of heads for panoramic picture taking. These can be turned into Virtual Reality images using computer software developed by Apple called “Quick Time” Virtual Reality. This software, together with a new generation of easy to use and affordable Virtual Reality software such as PictureWorks Spin™, Panonimations Nodester™, RealVR and Surround Video, provide a professional solution for anyone interested in adding digital VR panoramic images to their WEB site and/or multimedia applications. There are three important requirements to achieve good panoramic sequenced shots:

1. To level the panoramic rotation plane.
2. The ability to choose the repeatable angle of rotation between each shot.
3. Easy positioning of the camera lens optical centre above the rotation point (Nodal Point).

Panoramic Head #300 (3414)
Allows the aperture to set the angle of rotation between each shot or the number of shots spanning 360° rotation using the engraved, graduated scale markings for reference. The head can be used for precise sequential and constant angle shots or simply for panning and reading the angle of rotation. The camera can be mounted directly to the Panoramic head (use adapter #120 (3054), not included, for ¼˝ fitting) or on conventional Ball or 3D head which in turn is mounted on the Panoramic head. It features upper dual graduated scale to set the angle of rotation from 0° to 90° or the number of shots (from 4 to 36) spanning 360°; lower graduated scale from 0° to 360°. Accepts maximum weight of 30.8 lbs. (14kg). 2” tall and weighs 1.1 lbs. (.51kg).

The kit is built with a 338 Levelling Base, the 300 Panoramic Head and brackets to ensure the optical center of the lens is above the point of rotation to avoid parallax errors and ensure perfect QTVR production. Features Double Sliding Plate for “Needlepoint” adjustment, convenient camera fixing via Quick Release “Elbow Bracket” with ¼˝ and ¾˝ male screw, spirit level fine adjustment and graduated scale to set angle of rotation from 0° to 90° or the number of shots (4 to 36) spanning 360°. Subject to change without notice
Professional tripods constructed of hollow trapezoidal legs. The advantage over an open profile leg is that these are far more resistant to twisting, yet still weigh less, while accepting a maximum load of 154 lbs. (70kg). Through the fixed pneumatic center column, the camera height is lowered by reducing the pressure. There is no possibility of the camera suddenly dropping down. The length of the legs can be quickly and easily extended with the aid of the wide snap locks on top of the tripod. The legs are sealed and waterproofed, allowing you to use them outdoors, in snow, water or sand, without fear of the elements. The lower leg has a 35mm diameter and the upper leg a 29mm diameter.

Gitzo tripods, monopods, heads and accessories are acknowledged by professionals all over the world to have set the industry’s standard of excellence. The finest and strongest metal alloys are used in the manufacture of Gitzo products. Each tripod has been especially designed to withstand a maximum weight of equipment. This weight is determined by the diameter of the upper tripod leg. The first number in a 3-digit number, or the second number in a 4-digit number refers to the tripod upper leg and will also help in choosing the proper tripod head. For example, a discontinued G-375 or a current G-1376 head will match a G-320 tripod leg; while a G-1275 head will match a discontinued G-224 or a current G-1228 tripod leg.

Gitzo tripods are superbly engineered to withstand the most robust handling. High strength light alloy tubes resist twist and stress to provide absolute stability. Fine-tolerance telescopic legs ensure smooth silent gliding action every time. And all Gitzo tripods are easily assembled and maintained, while fiber clamping bushes will protect the metal surfaces against damage and wear.

Majestic has been producing precision camera supports for more than forty years. Traditional manufacturing techniques and hand assembly are employed, utilizing steel, aluminum tubing and precision machined alloy casting. All fasteners are removable with standard hand tools and, where appropriate, lock washers are used where vibration and long wear might loosen a part. All locking screws work against tension, ensuring that they will not release inadvertently.

Majestic International 5000 Series tripods are offered with black anodized aluminum legs, dark gray anodized center column, and include a 3⁄8” camera mounting screw. The Classic 5200 Series tripods come with a 1 1⁄2˝ (3.8cm) center post, and the 5900 Series come with a 1 7⁄8˝ (4.76cm) center post.

Majestic tripods are also available with two column extensions. All come with Quicklift ratchet drives which provide 2” of vertical motion for each turn of the gear driven crank.

Brom tripods are wooden tripods, precision made in Germany, of ashwood. Why wood tripods? Wood absorbs vibration, metal transmits it. Wood is weather-wise, it wears well, it feels good to the touch. It is the tripod material of choice for astronomers, surveyors and the construction trades. Equipped with center posts, it is becoming the choice of still and video/cine photographers. Ashwood legs lock individually. Brom Tripods are available in various styles, with tilting post and extra height. All tripods, except the top-of-the-line Master tripod, have a 1.9” (4.7cm) diameter mounting plate with a ¼” screw. The Master tripod has a large 3.3” (8.3cm) mounting plate.

Ever since their introduction over thirty years ago, the Arca Swiss Monoballs have been at the forefront of quality and performance. Today, Arca Swiss continues its tradition of innovation and leadership by introducing major technological breakthroughs in Monoball design.

The axial clamping mechanism provides higher load capacity and prevents even the slightest migration when the camera is locked into position. A separate control is set to apply a constant minimum friction.

The progressive cushioning feature counteracts the effect of weight transfer when the camera is tilted. It is especially useful with heavy cameras. In actuality, there are two types of ballheads available. a) The B1 Series design, which is a single axis rotation with one locking knob; b) the B2 design, which is built on the double axis rotation, allowing movement around two distinct axes due to two separate balls encapsulated into one another and two individual locking knobs. The B1 Series single action ballhead is sold various ways. The “b” economic model, without panning capabilities, the B1 Standard with panning capabilities and the “G” (gross) large model, all sold with different camera mounting devices. All Arca ballheads mount onto 3/8” tripod screw.

BILORA BALLHEADS

Bilora ballheads, made in Germany, are both professional and economical. They are made of all metal aluminum and feature large plastic knobs. The heads mount onto tripods with ⅜” size screw.
Foba Superball, made with precision, is one of the strongest fixation devices on the market today. Large locking levers make the heads very easy to handle. They lock down firmly with just a twist.

User-adjustable tension allows fine-tuning the performance of the ball to suit the shooting situation, as well as to compensate for wear over the life of the ball, which sits in a Teflon collar for smooth rotation.

Mounting and unmounting a camera - particularly a large one - on a tripod can be a nuisance. The two Quick Mounts cut this operation down to size. Both have a spring-loaded, quick action lever on the baseplate which allows for easy insertion of the camera plate. In the Brom Quick Mount set, this lever is held open manually; in the Heavy-Duty Sachtler it remains cocked in the open position and locks automatically when the camera plate contacts the baseplate. These truly live up to their title of “Quick” mount.

A Prohead allows more freedom of movement than existing ballheads or conventional tripod heads and does it with much greater security. It will tilt past 90° in any direction and has 360° panning capability. Two jumbo locking knobs give the photographer complete control over all camera movements. One knob locks all tilts, and the other locks the panning. Both controls are easy to locate and use. The 360° rotation control cannot be mistaken for the tilt control, even in total darkness. Rotation is graduated in 15° increments to provide convenient reference angles. Proheads can accommodate 35mm, medium format, 4x5 and 8x10 view cameras both safely and securely. The main locking knob includes a tensioning adjustment, so the amount of drag on camera movements can be adjusted for different weights. Tightening the locks does not cause the head to change location, even slightly.
